Inoculation and debunking reduce the impact of misinformation about climate change

Randomised experiment testing a inoculation intervention against a control condition (N = 640). Participants rated the accuracy of true and false news headlines and reported their sharing intentions; the intervention condition showed improved discern