The Implied Truth Effect: Attaching Warnings to a Subset of Fake News Headlines

Randomised experiment testing a accuracy prompt intervention against a control condition (N = 560). Participants rated the accuracy of true and false news headlines and reported their sharing intentions; the intervention condition showed improved dis