I do not believe you: how providing a source corrects health misperceptions

Randomised experiment testing a correction intervention against a control condition (N = 731). Participants rated the accuracy of true and false news headlines and reported their sharing intentions; the intervention condition showed improved discernm